Gov. Walton Declares He Will Not Pass Cases to Next Executive by Re- prieves—None Shall Die, Despite Criticism He Says

(By The Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, April 7.—Governor B. C. Walton intends to commute all death sentences of prisoners at the state pen to life imprisonment, asserting that he will not pass the cases to the next governor by a series of reprieves.

"Regardless of the criticisms which may be hurled at me I have the legal authority to say that no man shall die in the chair or by the noose in this state and that is my resolve," the governor said. Six men are waiting execution at the pen for murder.

Wallace Is Not Illegally Held Declares Court

Andrew Wallace, negro, charged with killing J. Ford Bailey is not illegally detained, Judge Withers ruled yesterday in passing on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by counsel for the accused man. The man's release from confinement was requested on the ground that the authorities had no legal evidence against him. Evidence was given which indirectly links the man, being held for grand jury action with the murder and the court ruled that the proceedings be dismissed. The court set $1,000 bail for Wallace which he was unable to furnish and he is back in jail.

Apple Crop In Patrick Is Not Badly Damaged

While some of the apple buds in various sections of Patrick county were killed by the recent sudden visitation of low temperatures, the damage done was not sufficient to prevent a full crop with a reasonable spring drop, according to a report made by the county agent of Patrick who has been over to the territory making an appraisal. The general opinion is that virtually all of the peaches, pears and plums were wiped out.

In Henry county the report is that apples, peaches and plums all suffered to a great extent from the low temperature.

Reports School of Turtles 80 Nautical Miles Long

WASHINGTON, April 6.—With the fishing season about to reopen formally, Capt. J. Johnson, the good ship Kinnecock, today filed with the Naval Hydrographic Office his contribution to narratives piscatorial.

While steaming placidly 100 miles off the west coast of Mexico, en route to San Pedro, said Captain Johnson, the Kinnecock encountered "an immense school of turtles, many of them ranging to several hundred pounds," and the school extending for more than "80 nautical miles."

Novelist Locke Follows His Own 'Marcus Ordeyne'

Father of Girl He Adopted Ends Life When She Spurns Him.

LONDON, April 6.—Eighteen years ago William J. Locke wrote a best seller, "The Mystery of Marcus Ordeyne," describing the adoption of a girl by a middle aged bachelor. The novelist now is living almost the same story, except that he is already married.

The culmination of the real life story came Tuesday—a tragedy instead of a comedy. The father of a beautiful seventeen-year-old girl, Miss Sheila Rosemary Bains, put his head in the gas oven in the kitchen of his home at Nottingham and suffocated himself.

The only motive suggested for the deed is the father's grief over his inability to persuade his daughter to leave the Lockes and return to his home. In January the young woman had inserted this advertisement in the personal columns of London Newspapers:

"I, Sheila Rosemary Locke, formerly called and known as Sheila Rosemary Bains, younger daughter of Alfred Sandells Bains and Alice Bains, hereby give notice that I have repudiated and abandoned the use of my surname, Bains."

Her parents replied to this with another "personal," saying they had looked an objection with the Enrollment Department of the High Court of Justice against the change of name. Their advertisement, dated Jan. 12, added:

The ground for our objection being that the said Sheila Rosemary Bains was an infant and such change of name was without our consent and contrary to our wishes."

Bains appeared three weeks ago to a Westminster Magistrate for assistance to make the girl return to her home. The Magistrate declared he had no authority to make such an order in the case of a child over sixteen. Meanwhile the girl remains with Mr. and Mrs. Locke at their winter home, Villa Des Isles, Cannes. A telegram telling of the father's suicide was sent there.

A friend of the Locke family said the Lockes and Bains once had been great friends. When Sheila was about three she stayed for a time with the Lockes at Rottingdean. There she was taken ill and it was while fighting for her life that the friendship between the child and the novelist began.

Afterward the girl spent many holidays with the Lockes and lived with them during most of the war as their home was outside the danger zone of air raids. After the war she went to school for two years at Leatherhead. The announcement of the change of name was made after she had gone home to visit at Cannes for the winter holidays.

"Deeply grieved at your bad news, deeply sympathetic with you in your great sorrow."

This was the cablegram the daughter sent her mother on learning of the suicide.

"Not a word in it to show she felt any sorrow on her own account, nothing to show she is coming home," exclaimed Mrs. Bains, adding through a friend who has been with her since the tragedy:

"I do not care now whether my daughter ever returns: it is too late. I am certain my husband's suicide is the direct result of Sheila's action."

According to Mrs. Bains, Sheila is the original girl in the novelist's "Sheila Marie."

Blocs Assailed by Harding in Speech

He Tells Augusans That Domestic Affairs of Coun- try Are of Greatest Con- cern—He Ends Vacation.

(By The Associated Press)
AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7.—Domestic affairs of the nation are now the greatest concern and the country today should guard against the development of blocs, according to President Harding.

The chief executive expressed these views at a dinner given in his honor by Augusta citizens last night. It was his first speech since he began his vacation trip in the South.

Preparation for leaving here were made today and tonight the president's party will begin the journey to Washington where the president will take up his official duties. His speech last night took the form of an appeal to the people of the South.

He deplored any formation of blocs in the republic. In the course of his remarks which covered a variety of topics he asserted that he did not believe there was a vestige of the sectionalism of the civil war left in the United States.

Slouch Hat Clue To Missing Man

(By The Associated Press)
RICHMOND, Va., April 6.—Authorities investigating the disappearance of Joseph Stanley, whose automobile was found in a mill-pond near Petersburg, today turned their attention to the slouch hat that was picked up on the banks of Swift Creek. It was stated that the hat was similar to that worn by the white man who was seen leaving two Petersburg residences Tuesday evening. The two homes were robbed of more than $1,000 in securities and cash. Local police are seeking Stanley in connection with the hat and the slouch hat which was found with him with passing a worthless check.

Nine Perish As Ship Sinks

(By The Associated Press)
VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., April 7.—The steamer John Dwight, of New York, carrying a cargo of bottles, also believed to be intended for that port went down in Vineyard Sound yesterday with a loss of nine lives. That was the number of bodies found by fishermen today from the sound where the steamer sank. The waters were reported strewn with barrels of bottled ale.

THEY DROPPED PILOT

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 7.—Two rain runners captured in the motor launch Defi, 15 miles off the Jersey coast dropped Captain Ryan of the coast police cutter Manhattan overboard as the cutter docked here today and made their escape.

36 BOOTLEG CARS ARE ORDERED SOLD IN HENRY COUNTY COURT

(Special to The Bee)
MARTINSVILLE, Va., April 7.—This has been a bad week for the bootleggers in the Henry County Circuit court which has been engaged in disposing of one of the largest dockets remembered. Most of the cases involved infractions of the liquor law.

Information was filed against forty automobiles seized since the last quarterly term and in which the officers found thirty-three of the machines sold after the customary ten days advertisement. The remaining four were restored to their owners who were able to show that the machines had been used without their knowledge and consent. There were also forty men indicted for violating the Mapp act. Thirty-two were convicted and each one was sentenced to serve in jail. The term ranged from thirty days to six months.

Judge Clement has set May 7th as a special term on which John Stone, accused of killing Police Officer George Frame of Bassett, will be tried. His counsel from Patrick county asked for a continuance because they had not had time to formulate a defense. It is reliably learned that insanity will be the plea made for Stone who shot the officers four times when the latter sought to apprehend him on the charge of being intoxicated.

Moses Reed drew a ten year term yesterday when he pleaded guilty to knocking J. B. Roze on the head near Ridgeway station, robbing him of $115. The negro entered a plea of guilty. Elmer Lewis who is indicted with Buster Brown, negro, charged with complicity on the killing of Constable Hughes, pleaded guilty and was given a three year term. W. D. Henderson also held for complicity in the killing and who is in Danville jail, will not be tried just yet. It indicated that the state first desires the apprehension of Brown before Henderson's trial is held into.

Cott Penn and John Ross who threw rocks through the windows of a Norfolk and Western train some time ago, was convicted and given four years in the penitentiary each. The civil cases have been taken up.

Express Companies Must Establish a Joint Service

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 7.—The American Railway Express Company, under an order by the Interstate Commerce Commission is required to establish joint service with the Southern express company and to provide reasonable routing for shipments in conjunction with that company in the United States. Many Southern cities joined in the proceedings before the commission. The Southeastern Express Company which operates on Southern railway lines declared that the refusal of the other company to make reasonable arrangements for co-operation is handling shipments constituted an unjust burden on Southern shippers.

The commission concluded that the Southeastern company was justified in its complaints and declared that through routes and transfer points should be established. The commission suggested that an arbitration committee be set up to fix the form of the new arrangement and declared that in case of failure to agree the commission itself would pass on the dispute which might be left unsettled.

Squire Collie Deplores Tactics Of Speed Officers

(Special to The Bee)
CHATEAU, April 7.—Magistrate R. C. Collie continues to deal with a large number of alleged violators of the state speed laws. However, Magistrate Collie is being as lenient as sworn duty will permit him, explaining that he is not in accord with the trap method of catching alleged speeders resorted to by the officers.

He stated that he is opposed to the method and for this reason is inclined to be as lenient as he possibly can. He says that he realizes it is a law which the majority of the people are not familiar with, but where the evidence is against the person charged, he must deal with them accordingly. He emphasized that he is not responsible for the tactics of county officers in catching alleged violators. Among such cases dealt with yesterday included cases against Commonwealth's Attorney John W. Carter, of Danville and E. G. Moseley, prominent Danville citizen. The warrant in the case of Mr. Carter was withdrawn by Constable S. Anderson who summoned him. He claimed that he was not positive that Mr. Carter was violating the law. No fine was imposed in the case of Mr. Moseley either. The facts in his case also were not certain.

Blame Camorra For Dual Slaying

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 7.—Men with scratched faces were being sought today by the police as the murderers of the two young women found hacked to death on a lonely road near the Statutes on Long Island.

A particular identification were mentioned by the police who found evidence of a struggle for life by the two women, Mrs. Irene Blandino, of Jersey City, and Miss Bessie McMahon, of Union, N. Y.

The police believe the victims dug their fingers deep into the flesh of their assailants in their struggle. (The theory that the black hand may be involved in the murders was advanced after police learned that Mrs. Blandino's first husband, Frank Bongirani had been killed by a man who had lived with the woman before she met Bongirani. That killing, the police say, was a "cold blooded" slaying.

Although he lived ten days after being stabbed, Bongirani refused to divulge the name of his assailant and after he died Mrs. Blandino refused to tell because she was "afraid of the gang."

"The gang," the police are convinced, was a blackhand organization.

Duel to Death on Street Of Tennessee Town

COVINGTON, Tenn., April 6.—Joseph J. Hunt, 40 years old, member of a local jewelry firm, is dead, and Ermond J. Coates, acting marshal, may die as a result of a pistol battle on the public square of Covington late yesterday.

According to witnesses, the two men had been engaged in conversation and Coates had started away across the square when Hunt drew a pistol and began firing. After being shot four times Coates fell and Hunt, empty pistol in hand, walked up to him, pointing the weapon at him.

Coates turned over, and resting his pistol, fired at Hunt a single range. Both men were shot four times. Hunt died a few hours later. Bad blood is said to have existed between the men for months.

Find Huge Meteorite Looked For Since 1774

BUENOS AYRES, April 6.—A meteorite said to have fallen in the Territory of Chaco, Argentina, 300 years ago and the object of numerous expeditions since 1774, has been rediscovered and a fragment weighing about one kilo has been sent to the government of the Province of Santiago del Estero.

The government of Santiago del Estero offered a reward of 900 gold pesos and ten square leagues of land in 1875 for discovery of this meteorite.

The mass, it is asserted, weighs more than fifty-seven tons. It measures 2.52 meters in length, 1.52 in width and 1.40 in thickness.

Other Indictments In Herrin Cases Are Nolle Prossed

Expect Jennings Here On Sunday

Dennis Jennings, alleged automobile thief in custody of State License Inspector Ben Coleman and J. C. Carter, detective for an automobile liability insurance concern, is expected to arrive in Danville during the course of Sunday. The officers left Richmond, it is understood on Tuesday, and local officers expect to see them in Danville before Monday morning. The belief was expressed in some quarters, however, that the two officers might reasonably be expected to spend a day or two in the city in order to be ready for the journey South with their prisoner and might possibly want to make some investigation of Jennings' activities in Canada and other border cities.

The element of risk in bringing Jennings back to Danville is being freely discussed here. The man who for two years eluded the best efforts of the legal machinery of three states to say nothing of the government, which spurs no exposure in getting fugitives is not likely to miss an opportunity to escape. The possibility of friends of the man, seeking to intercept him and liberate him is also not discounted. The two officers, however, are known to be alive to these possibilities and there is general confidence that Jennings will be delivered safely to the local authorities.

Action Is Result of Acquittal Yesterday of Six De- fendants—Brundage Says Justice Is Not to Be Had There.

(By The Associated Press)
MARIION, Illinois, April 7.—All of the untired criminal indictments growing out of the Herrin riots were nolle prossed today. The defendants had been acquitted yesterday.

JUSTICE CANNOT BE OBTAINED, SAYS BRUNDAGE
(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, April 7.—Justice cannot be obtained at Williamsburg county, in the opinion of Attorney-General Brundage, who returned today from Marion where a second acquittal verdict was by a jury in the Herrin mine murder trials. It was as result of the not guilty verdict last night that all the remaining cases were nolle prossed today, he said.

Autos Collide On Main Street

A Buick coupe, driven by Dr. Julian Robinson, and a Nash touring car driven by W. G. Benefield, and containing several other persons were in collision on lower Main street last night about 10 o'clock. One occupant of the Nash, whose name was learned only as Miss Turbeville, was slightly injured when she was thrown from the machine into the street.

The Nash machine, owned by Mrs. W. G. Benefield, was going slowly out of Craghead street into Main. Dr. Robinson was going down Main street. When the Buick coupe reached Main street and started to turn down to go to North Danville, Dr. Robinson's car crashed into it broadside. Miss Turbeville was hauled over the door into the street, but it was soon learned that she was not seriously hurt. The Nash car was badly damaged. The accident was investigated by Police Officer A. C. Morgan, who saw the cars when they ran together.

South Union Again A Two Way Street

Several enquiries have been made recently relative to whether South Union street is still a 'one-way' street or if traffic can now turn into it from Main since the completion of the Masonic Temple. An increasing number of city owned cars are driving through the thoroughfare from Main street and there is a conflict of opinion as to whether this is legal.

Chief of Police Bell this morning admitted that many people write up the street both ways and he expressed the belief that Union street should be a one-way street until the Register building now in course of construction has been completed. Study of the city traffic, however, reveals no restriction as to the use of the street and unless the council amends the ordinance no proceedings can be instituted against persons who drive through Union from Main.

Danville Kiwanis At South Boston

A group of Danville Kiwanis journeyed last night to South Boston to attend a meeting of a newly organized club in the Halifax town. There are fifty charter members of the organization and last night Joe Baines, field secretary of the Kiwanis organization was there with Danville members to witness the launching of the club which will now apply for a charter and a place on the roster of Kiwanis clubs. Several of the Danville delegates made brief addresses in which the benefits of Kiwanism were outlined and described. Those going from Danville in automobiles were C. G. Evans, Frank Blandino, H. H. Vass, David P. Garvin, Hugh Keeling, W. Tredway Gravelly, H. F. Vass, and David P. Garvin.

Hypnotized by Propellor, Walk into It, Is Killed

LONDON, April 6.—While watching the revolving propeller of an airplane being tested at a distance of a few feet, an airman apparently became hypnotized. He walked slowly to the propeller and was killed. Medical opinion attributed his action to hypnotic attraction.

This is the latest in a report, just issued, on the health of the Royal Air Force for 1921.

PANIC STRIKES OWNERS OF EGYPTIAN RELICS IN BRITAIN

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, April 6.—The death of the Earl of Carnarvon has caused panic among private collectors of Egyptian antiquities, according to the Daily Express, which declares that a number of people in Great Britain are sending their treasures to the British Museum in London, fearing to retain them as they believe that Carnarvon was killed by Tutankhamen, his souls' double.

The paper says that an avalanche of parcels, containing mummies, shrunken hands and feet, porcelain and wooden statues and other relics from Egyptian tombs, has descended on the museum in the last two days. The majority of the parcels do not bear senders names, the owners evidently trying to keep their identity secret.

The museum authorities are no wise and some fear that this flood of gifts, for few of them are valuable. But according to the Express, they are accustomed to such enforced liabilities, having harbored the coffin lid of the powerful priestesses of Amenra for years. When a story of the curse of the priestesses became public some years ago enough gifts were showered upon the museum to fill a large show case.

The statement made by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle in New York regarding a mummy that had been in the British Museum "which became noted because of the series of misfortunes which befell those who had anything to do with it," is prominently printed in the newspapers today. Museum officials, however, asserted that they were not aware of the existence of any such mummy. The public probably was confused regarding a mummy case and some papers said to have been at the end of it. This paper was not found with the mummy case and had no connection with it. Certain stories connecting the mummy case with the disaster to the steamer Titanic were characterized as absolutely untrue by the officials, who added that they had no time to go further into "such nonsense."

RIDER HAGGARD CALLS
MYSTIC TALK RUBBISH
(By The Associated Press)
HASTINGS, Eng., April 6.—"All this business about Carnarvon being sought to his end by magic is nonsense, and dangerous nonsense, because it goes to stir that rising tide of superstition which seems to be engulfing the world," said Sir H. Rider Haggard, the eminent traveler and writer, in an address to the Hastings Rotary club today.

No sensible man believes that the Almighty would punish the death of a dead Pharaoh, who was only a man with a crown on his head to make people by magical means.

These things are all very well in the realms of romance, but in the real world, where the facts are, they are sticking to nothing.

NO WARNING IN TOMB
SAYS NOVED EGYPTOLOGIST
CHICAGO, April 6.—Prof. D. D. Luckenbill, expert in Egyptology at the University of Chicago and assistant to Prof. James Henry Breasted, who accompanied the Carnarvon expedition said today:

"The curse theory of Lord Carnarvon's death is bunk. An Egyptian King wasn't worried about what men were doing to do long after his death. Most of the misadventures found in Egyptian tombs are biographical. None bear warnings or curses."

Charles Breasted, son of the Chicago scientist, who recently returned from Egypt, said:

"Lord Carnarvon's death is curious and mysterious. I knew him well. He was a brilliant and daring explorer. I put no credence whatever in the curse story."

DADDY LONG-LEGS PRESENTED AGAIN

The second offering of "Daddy Long-Legs" last night at the Elks auditorium was even more of a success than the first performance on Thursday night. The room was filled and the audience was delighted with the splendid presentation of Jean Webster's play.

The cast last evening read their lines with more ease and savoir faire than the first time. The stage management was better and the stage management was easier and more natural.

The program was added to no little by the musical numbers given by Miss Conner and Miss Peggy Reid.

The show was given by the Business Girls' Council of the Y. W. C. A. and the funds derived are to be used to pay the expenses of the delegates to the summer conference.

The young ladies and young men, as well as the children who made up the cast worked hard to make the show a success and they deserve unstinted praise for the two really delightful performances that were given.

The bride they were to be married to was played by Mrs. Henry Leigh and the results of her efforts bespeak the careful attention she gave to the various amateur actors and the cast at a whole.

INTERESTING WEDDING THIS EVENING

At the Mount Vernon Methodist church this evening at 8:30 o'clock Miss Genevieve Lupton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Hazlewood, and James Ray, of Monroe, Ga., will be united in marriage, the Rev. J. Callaway Robertson being the celebrant.

The bride is a daughter of the celebrated actress, Mrs. Lupton, who has been married to the late Mr. Robertson. An informal reception will follow at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hazlewood, Mount Vernon avenue, to which about 125 invitations have been issued.

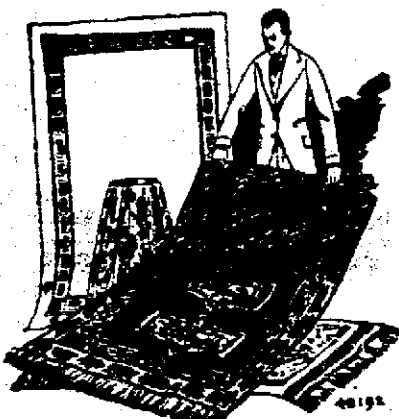

The wedding of the younger set and is widely esteemed here.

LOOT SUM IS GROWING

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—Postal inspectors tonight expressed the belief that when they completed checking up on the nine pouches of registered mail taken by five bandits in a daring hold-up here Monday the total loot, which was announced as $2,364,100 today, would be increased considerably.

TIRES WITH 500 NAIL HOLES LEAK NO AIR

Mr. M. C. Milburn, of Chicago, has invented a new puncture-proof tire tube which, in actual test, was punctured 500 times without the loss of any air. Increase your mileage from 10,000 to 15,000 miles without removing the tire from the wheel and the beauty of it all is that this new puncture-proof tube costs no more than the ordinary tube and makes riding a real pleasure. You can write Mr. M. C. Milburn at 333 West 47th St., Chicago, as he wants them introduced everywhere. Wonderful opportunity for agents. If interested write him today.—adv.

Judges Score "Peep-Hole" Sleuths

DIVORCE detectives are multiplying with divorce. Is the "profession" an instrument of good or evil?

Heads of private detective agencies engaging or specializing in divorce work will tell you that they deplore the necessity for existence of their business, but that it is as essential a social safeguard as are the police and fire departments.

Moralists and sociologists, studying the divorce evil, will tell you that the "scandal-sniffing" private detective agencies aggravate it. They point out that their aim is not to reunite estranged couples but to obtain evidence which will make home-wrecking swift and certain.

The question of importance to be attached to evidence gathered and introduced by divorce detectives enters into every trial in which they figure.

How great should this be? The Bee, through NEA Service, today put this question to eight nationally known divorce judges.

Judge George A. Bartlett, who has presided over the greater number of the 742 divorce proceedings in which decisions were rendered at Reno last year, says testimony of peep-hole detectives is not welcome in his court, though under the laws of Nevada, he is compelled to consider it if it is introduced.

During his time on the bench, only one such detective has testified in his court. This is because divorce action in Reno usually is based on cruelty, desertion, failure to provide or other grounds with which the activities of private detectives are not connected.

Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morshauser, trial judge in Westchester county, probably has heard more divorce cases than any other place in New York state.

"My experience is that juries place little value on the evidence of such detectives," Justice Morshauser says, "unless the evidence is most thoroughly corroborated from other sources."

"If I had my own way I would not grant a divorce for any cause—separation, yes, for certain reasons, but a divorce never. The nation would be better off."

Defective testimony is always to be taken with a grain of salt, says Judge

Timothy D. Hurley, who presides over the domestic relations branch of the Cook county Superior court at Chicago.

In a majority of cases where they have come before me, I have kicked such detectives out of court," he says. "There is something repulsive to my mind about any person who tries to salvage a few paltry dollars from the wreck of a home."

And says California's famed divorce judge, Thomas F. Graham, San Francisco:

"The peep-hole detective is in the business of getting evidence that will break up homes."

"The humanitarian judge seeks to find in the evidence presented at a divorce hearing something that will lead to bringing together again the estranged souls."

"So peep-hole evidence must be taken in court with a grain of salt."

And here are the opinions of still more judges:

JUDGE CHARLES M. BRUCE, Boston—"Evidence testified to by divorce detectives and spotters should have no standing in any court procedure."

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE FREDERICK L. SIDMONS, District of Columbia—"Men who engage in the business of spying on women for hire in order to catch them in compromising situations are decidedly regarded with distrust. Their testimony, like that of all questionable witnesses, should be most carefully scrutinized. I would grant no divorce on their uncorroborated testimony."

JUDGE EUGENE D. THOMAS, Superior Court, Atlanta, Ga.—"In my estimation a man can sink no lower than to become a peep-hole detective and the day is coming when men of this type surely will not be tolerated. I have observed that the testimony of these persons is regarded lightly in the courts of this state and I am glad of it."

JUDGE PERCY SAINT, Civil District Court, New Orleans—"Use of evidence obtained by 'peep-hole Toms' continually is on the increase and should be curbed by legislative action. The testimony of such detectives surely should not be accepted on the same basis as that of unbiased and unpaid witnesses."

"THE GOLD DIGGERS."

Great Demand for Seats—Advance Sale Opened Yesterday.

In the comedy, "The Gold Diggers," which will be presented at the Majestic Theatre on Tuesday, April 10, Avery Hopwood, the author, deals with a phase of metropolitan life that is alluring to the many but that is known to only few—except, of course, those who are themselves an actual part of it. This life which Mr. Hopwood has so brilliantly and humorously pictured is that of the typical New York chorus girl in her hours of ease when she addresses herself to the business of advancing her social, financial and sentimental interests. The unusual atmosphere of the play has afforded David Belasco, the producer, abundant opportunity for novel and striking stage adornment, and the company, which is headed by Gertrude Vanderbilt, is of the high quality that is to be expected in a Belasco organization.

Prices 50c to $2.50. Seat sale now at box office.

Liquor Stills Are Found In Home Of Negro

While Police Detective J. N. Campbell was investigating a robbery yesterday afternoon which took him to the home of John Pinchback, colored, he, by chance, discovered two liquor distilling outfits in the negro's home. Instead of John Henry Pinchback being in custody on a larceny charge, his father John, Sr., is in the toils of the law to answer for the presence of the stills.

G. B. Worry, who operates a store on Lee street, yesterday reported to the police that his cash register had been robbed of about twenty dollars. Suspicion pointed to John Henry Pinchback. While the negro was in the store Mrs. Worry turned and left for a few moments and when she returned she was just in time to see the boy coming from behind the counter. She thought nothing of it at the time but a short time later discovered that the cash register had been robbed. The police were notified and Officer Campbell went directly to the negro's house to investigate. The elder Pinchback welcomed the officer to a search, expressing his belief that his son was innocent of any robbery and not dreaming that the officer would have any idea of looking into a wooden box in the kitchen. Campbell was not in the house long before he detected the odor of sour mash. He had participated in too many raids to allow the odor to fool him into believing that something was not wrong. When he went into the kitchen and stood beside a wooden box the odor seemed to permeate the air strongly. He asked Pinchback if he minded opening the box and the negro apparently concluding that it would be no use to decline, stooped hastily over and began fumbling with the lock. Before opening it, he gave a sickly grin and remarked, "You may not find the boy's stuff, but you sure have got me. He then opened up the box, and two stills, with cap and worm complete were revealed to the officer's sight. Pinchback claimed that he had found the utensils but admitted using them for his own personal use. He explained the presence of the beer he said that it was some local beer which his wife had made.

One of the stills seemed to be of about five gallon capacity while the other had the appearance of turning out only two gallons at one time. Campbell secured no evidence in the robbery case. He found but a small amount of money in the younger negro's possession.

Roman Eagle Will Hold First Meet In Its New Lodge

The first stated communication of the Roman Eagle lodge, No. 122, A. F. & A. M., in the imposing and elegant new temple recently building by and for it is set for Monday night, and indications now point to the presence of one of the largest assemblies of bull-dog Masons in the history of Danville.

It may be stated the most prominent members of the craft and practically all of those now residing here who have held the mastership will be present, and also some distinguished and scholarly craftsmen from other lodges.

It is the regular stated or monthly communication of the lodge for the transaction of business, but this routine program will soon be disposed of and a special and varied program appropriate to the memorable occasion will follow the normal one. Worshipful Master William H. Parker and his wardens are planning some features of particular interest to those attending to all who attend. This meeting should not be confused with the formal dedicatory exercises and the housewarming which have been planned for a not distant day.

Plans for the coming night are of the commensurate importance of the autographing and photographing of all present at the first meeting in the lodge's new $750,000 temple, which is to be its permanent home. While technically the lodge does not yet hold title to a real estate, this being reserved for the holding company familiarly known as the Masonic Building corporation, an intermediary for the financing and realization of the carefully considered construction plans, yet practically the imposing and beautiful temple is now the property of this subordinate lodge.

Appreciation and commendation of the long and arduous labors of the Building Committee, who have borne much of the burden of such a large undertaking for more than three years, and of the hardly less noteworthy service rendered by the Furnishings Committee are growing daily and may now be said to be almost universal.

Acknowledgment is now being freely made of the debt of gratitude due those who have given so unselfishly of their time, thought, labor and technical ability, and such appreciation is finding untinged expression among the craftsmen of all the local Masonic bodies.

The Building Committee is now as originally named by the master of the lodge in the Spring of 1920 and is as follows: A. B. Carrington, chairman; James T. Cullen, P. F. Conway, Plumer, Wiseman and S. J. Owens.

The Furnishings Committee was chosen jointly by the three branches of Masonry and consists of Harry Wood Smith, past master, past high priest and past commander; Herbert E. Merritt, past master; and Eugene H. Marshall, now an officer of both blue lodge and commandery. The fruits of their labors in the superb furniture, draperies and lighting fixtures and the complete equipment of the several meeting halls have elicited the warmest praise.

Other interesting phases of the program of the initiatory communication in the new temple are known only by those in the confidence of the master. The presence of all the resident past commanders is being sought and this of itself will be an interesting feature. No other refreshment is planned for this communication, owing to the lack of time after it was realized that the lodge-room would be ready for this meeting, but the refreshing and stimulation of Masonic enthusiasm and of pride and interest in the work are deemed to be sufficient to make this a memorable occasion.

FIRE DESTROYS FURNITURE CO. STORAGE PLANT

The storage house of W. R. Mitchell's Furniture company on North Main street was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon, the entire structure and contents being burned. The value of the structure and furniture stored in the place was estimated by Mr. Mitchell at approximately $8,000. The fire was started by some small children on the premises in the rear. It is said they were playing with a lantern when inflammable material became ignited and spread rapidly.

Both the southside and northside answered the call, which was turned in at 4:20 o'clock, but the latter, although located just across the street was late in getting in operation and it was said that the southside fighters were the first to attack the fire. Once, both departments were fighting the blaze, it was restricted to its point of origin, the flames being kept away from the main building, which had it caught, would have resulted in a costly fire.

No insurance was carried on either the building or the stock. Mr. Mitchell stated last night that he does not carry fire insurance, because of the fact that his store is located just across the street from the fire department where he has been in business for 33 years and has never had a fire before. There will be no interruption in business as the flames did not damage the main building.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF ARRESTED FOR DRAPER, N. C.

Police Detective J. C. Lewis yesterday placed under arrest Edward Thomas Cox, said to be wanted in Draper for the theft of an automobile. The youth was taken back to the North Carolina town last night. He at first stated that he would demand requisition but later said he would return without papers being served. The youth denies the theft charge.

Burns Knows Who Put Up Money for Chapman's Escape

Believes Case Will Be Cleared Up Shortly—Bandit Still at Large, Although Search Continues.

(By The Associated Press)
ATLANTA, April 7.—That he has a very definite idea of the man who put up the money for the escape of Gerald Chapman, the million dollar mail bandit, from the federal penitentiary here, was asserted today by William J. Burns, chief of the investigating bureau of the Department of Justice. Apprehension of the man is expected. "On information I have just received," Burns said, "I think the case will be cleared up shortly." He would not indicate how many he suspected of complicity. The director of the bureau said he was primarily interested in the apprehension of the man who he said provided funds resulting in Chapman's escape. At the present time the hunt for the man is being pushed and more agents have been sent to Athens to join the hunt.

DOYLE RETURNS TO AMERICA

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and his family as they arrived in New York on the Olympic. Sir Arthur is here on another tour to exploit his belief in spiritism.

Spirit Pictures Of Dead Amaze Gotham Crowd

Author of Sherlock Holmes Flashes Unusual Picture on Screen of Carnegie Hall—Audience Moved by Sight.

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 7.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle brought gasps of surprise from a large audience in Carnegie Hall last night when he threw on the screen "the greatest spirit in the world," depicting hundreds of faces which he declared were those of spirits dead.

"Do you see the dead creeping through the air dramatically, as he pointed to the spectral faces on the screen."

"You can see them everywhere," the lecture was drawing to a close. Sir Arthur had flashed on the screen a number of pictures he brought with him on an earlier tour when, without warning, he showed his "greatest pictures."

They were taken, he said, on the anniversary of Armistice Day by Mrs. Dean, an English medium and showed the crowds around the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in London, observing two minutes of silence.

As the pictures were shown, a small phosphorescent patch where, Sir Arthur said, several mediums stood. As the second picture was shown, a woman cried out:

"Don't you see them? Can't you see them?"

The crowd seen blotted out in the second photo.

Around the tomb were hundreds of spectral faces, some blurred, some distinct but all distinguishable by a tight-lipped grimace.

The audience gasped, then broke into a murmur of whispering. As the woman's spontaneous cry pierced the air of the hall, a few women sobbed.

Sir Arthur said, "I don't wonder you are moved. It is so realistic. I consider it the greatest spirit picture in the world."

In explaining the picture he said that was a photo of a spirit but the second a time exposure. He said the plates had been developed immediately afterwards so there was no chance for fraud.

Christian Colony Prospers Quietly

The development of the "Christian colony" in Smith River Valley, high in the Patrick county mountains and ten miles from the nearest community, is progressing favorably, according to reports which have been received here from that section. It is now nearly a year ago that Rev. M. Allen Stickley, with a small band of followers undertook to settle in the fertile expanse, protected from invasion by forbidding hills and little has been heard from the project until this time. Information reaching this paper from a reliable source is that six families have been quietly at work founding this Utopia under the leadership of Rev. Mr. Stickley, and that during the coming Spring a number of additional families are expected. The informant who recently broadcast one of the hills overlooking the fertile valley which is watered by Smith river, could see many new buildings erected and the framework of others going up. One of the structures looked like a school and the other in architectural design, appeared to be a church. In addition there are the six dwellings and outhouses of the settlers erected along symmetrical lines on a rise from which there is a beautiful outlook over the tract.

The men and women who felt the urge of setting away from the temptations of a reckless world and its temptations to practise a daily religion founded on the fundamental truth of the Bible are described as being of the best sort of people. The men are sturdy, hard workers and good farmers, the women comely and fine housekeepers. The small colony has a tendency to dairying. It is said and has, secured pure bred sires. Fruit is being grown and also grain which does well in the rich soil.

Farmers who have come in contact with these people describe them as friendly and deeply religious. Rev. Mr. Stickley is said to have fine qualities of leadership and to have definitely established the colony which seems nothing more than to be left alone to practise a creed of close communion with nature and the Almighty.

SARAH SNEAD DIES AFTER ILLNESS OF EIGHT WEEKS

Sarah Snead, sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Snead, died at 7:30 o'clock this morning at the home of her parents, 427 Rodehorst street after an illness of eight weeks. She was a native of Danville and had for several years attended Shelton Memorial Presbyterian church. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock from the residence. Rev. M. S. Taylor will conduct the services. Interment will be in Mountain View cemetery. The little girl is survived by her parents and several brothers and sisters.

Community Camp Site Is Visited

Scout Troops No. Four, twenty-two boys, accompanied by O. L. Roach of the Rotary Club and R. K. Liville of the Lions Club, yesterday visited the prospective site of the community camp to be established on the farm of A. D. Starling, near Pelham, N. C. The trip was arranged to inspect the camp and to discuss improvements which are planned on it such as the erection of small buildings and the stretching of a dam across the creek so as to afford a good place for bathing. After the inspection the scouting party enjoyed supper on the bank of the stream. The camp site is understood to have been virtually decided on. Eventually it will have sections reserved for various Danville welfare organizations and clubs.

Good Morning Judge!

Only two cases were disposed of at this morning's brief session of the police court. Paul Brown drew a fine of $21 and costs on a speeding charge. Floyd Stanfield, colored, is alleged to have been loitering the streets too much recently and he was assessed one dollar and costs. A warrant against J. L. Shields, charging him with loitering also, was dismissed.

STOCK MARKET

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 7.—Week-end profit taking in some of the speculative favorites combined with a resumption of operations for the new in other quarters gave an irregular trend to the stock market today. Sugars continued to advance to higher ground under leadership of Punta Alegre and Cuban American. Studebaker and Magnin Henry to the advance in automobiles, Virginia-Carolina Chemical was again reactionary.

COTTON MARKET

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 7.—The cotton market was quiet and rather irregular in the early trading. There was realizing for over the week-end and after a steady opening at an advance of 6 points to a decline of 1 point, the market sagged to 29.52 or back to yesterday's close.

Cotton futures opened steady:

City Light Plant Is Record Breaker

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., April 6.—South Norwalk's municipal electric light company was started 31 years ago, on an investment of $22,500 and today, in a plant valued at $250,000, is doing a gross annual business of $150,000, which returns a net profit of $33,000, a year.

Westcott & Mapes, of New Haven, have been retained as engineers of the construction of a $300,000 addition to the plant made necessary by a business which gained 30 per cent. in the last month.

South Norwalk's municipal electric light plant furnishes house lighting at 10 cents per kilowatt hour, with a 10 per cent. reduction for payment of bills in 10 days, and furnishes factory or store lighting and power at rates ranging from 5 cents to 3 cents per kilowatt hour, with the same discount rate of 10 per cent. in 10 days.

The new addition is to be paid out of the company's profits, reinvested by the commissioners who run the plant, but one of the first steps to be attempted in the near future will be a reduction in rates to consumers.

Eventually, it is expected, the municipal lighting plant will pay all the debts of the district.

The plant was designed and its construction supervised by Albert E. Winchester, one of the original "Edison pioneers." Winchester has been superintendent of the plant since its completion and today is known as a municipal lighting expert who does not believe in general adoption of the plan, because he thinks his success is due to peculiar conditions and that lacking these conditions other cities would fail in conducting their own municipal lighting properties.

An interesting comparison is afforded by the above figures with the city electric light plant also operated on the municipal ownership plan. The Danville plant began operations in 1900 with a plant which then had a valuation of $15,000. Today the electric station has an estimated value of $750,000 and is doing an annual business of $75,000.

DEATH OF HENRY EVANS

The death took place yesterday evening at about half past seven o'clock of Henry Evans, aged 53, at Hilltop Sanatorium where he had been a patient for some little time. The funeral will be held Sunday from his late home on Union street and interment will be made near Milton, where deceased was born.

Make THE Backyard Pay

NO TROUBLE TO GROW BLACKBERRIES

BY W. R. BEATTIE
Extension Horticulturist, United States Department of Agriculture.

WILD blackberries and dewberries grow over a wide range of territory. Among them are found some excellent native varieties, but the cultivated sorts that have been developed are far superior.

Both blackberries and dewberries are adapted for growing in home gardens as they follow raspberries and strawberries and provide a continuous supply of their fruit for the table. About 15 hills of each of a combined row 90 feet in length will yield about enough berries for the ordinary family.

Blackberries are started by planting the suckers, young plants that come up from the extended roots of the old plants, or pieces of roots from the old plants may simply be buried at a depth of two or three inches where the hills are wanted. The best of suckers is best for the home garden.

The canes formed one year bear the fruit the following season and then should be removed. The strong growing canes should be pinched back during the summer so that they form branches and do not become too high.

Blackberries that grow wild in patches support one another, but in the garden, where the hills are spaced about three or four feet apart, the young and tender canes are liable to be broken off at the base by the wind unless they are tied to supports. A good way to support the blackberry plants is to drive a long stake about four feet high in the row beside each hill, then stretch about three strands of galvanized wire on the stakes and tie the canes to the wires.

Dewberries are similar to blackberries in most respects, except that the canes creep along the ground and form new plants by rooting at their tips. Set the plants in the early spring, in rows, and allow the row and allow the canes to lie on the ground the first season. Early the following spring drive a row of stakes and stretch wires upon them, forming a trellis to which the canes may be tied.

Dewberries are pruned very much the same as other berries by cutting out the old canes after fruiting and clipping back the new growth, if the canes grow longer than five or six feet. If more than five or six canes are formed in each hill thin out the weaker ones. Dewberries give better results in the South than blackberries.

In cold regions, dewberry canes "winter-kill" badly unless they are protected. One method of protecting the plants is to loosen the wires from the stakes and lay the wires and canes upon the ground, then cover with earth or with straw or both. In the early spring the covering is carefully removed and the wires fastened back in place without taking the canes off them.

Logan blackberries are adapted to growing on the Pacific Coast but do not thrive in the South or East. The loganberry is of the trailing type and resembles the dewberry in its habits of growth. It is a very strong grower, sometimes producing canes should be grown on the ground the first season, then tied up like dewberries.

OIL PROMOTERS FLEECE PUBLIC OF MILLIONS

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 6.—Oil stock promoters operating in the state of Texas during the last year have filched more than $100,000,000 from the public, Postmaster General New was advised today by John H. Edwards, solicitor of the Postoffice Department and chief postal inspector.

Mr. Edwards declared that the Postoffice Department intended "to move in the most vigorous and persistent manner possible for the enforcement of both the criminal law in the fraud order statutes against the fraudulent use of the mails not only in the sale of fraudulent oil stock but all other cases involving fraud in the mails."

Mr. New said the government had been appealed to by dissatisfied stockholders to stop oil stock frauds, after "wildcat promoters" had escaped prosecution by state authorities. Postoffice inspectors, he added, have been working since last summer more than 100 more than a hundred cases, many of which have already gone to the grand jury now in session at Fort Worth.

—Miss Ethel Adams, who was operated on for appendicitis at the General Hospital, has been removed to her home and is improving nicely.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

COULD HARDLY DO HER WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Eat, Sleep and Feel Better Every Day

Chicago, Ill.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time, and dizzy, and could not sleep and had no appetite. I tried different medicines for years, but they did not help me. Then I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for other women and gave it a trial. I began to eat better and could sleep, and consider it a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to my friends and will never be without it."

Mrs. M. OHLER, 3640 S. Marshfield Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

It is such letters as these that testify to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This woman speaks from the fullness of her heart. She describes as correctly as she can her condition, first the symptoms that bothered her the most, and later the disappearance of those symptoms. It is a sincere expression of gratitude.

For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been praised by women.

RADIO PLUGS IN EACH ROOM

MINNEAPOLIS, April 6.—In keeping with the rapid progress of the radio movement, it will soon be possible to "listen in" from rooms of a large hotel here, which has contracted for the connecting of each of several hundred rooms with radio plugs. The guests will not have to invest in a receiving set, as headphones may be rented for a small fee from the clerk's office.

According to the plan of engineers who have worked on the scheme for several weeks, a massive aerial and three power receiving stations will be equipped in one of the top floors of the hotel. Each room will have a radio plug connected to one of the three receiving sets. Feasibility of the plan was proved recently when more than 100 rooms listened in on one concert.

The guest who wishes radio entertainment may call the office and a set

LACY LANIER IS WANTED IN N. C.

(Special To The Register)
RICHMOND, Va., April 6.—Detective Hunnicutt, from Raleigh, N. C., is here with a request that Lacy Lanier, recently captured in Lynchburg, be delivered to him for the North Carolina authorities. Lanier has twice escaped from the roads in North Carolina, where he was serving a term for stealing automobiles. He is wanted in Virginia to answer some forty charges of stealing machines, and after the Virginia courts get through with him he will be returned to North Carolina.

INDICT BANK CASHIER FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

(By The Associated Press)
H. Penfield, former cashier of the Springfield (Ohio) National Bank, was indicted here today by the Federal grand jury. The indictment contains twelve counts. Penfield, according to the indictments, embezzled $99,333 of the funds of the institution.

Each count in the indictment is for different amounts and run over a period of time starting in September, 1926. Penfield is being held under $35,000 bond.

Penfield was also indicted on two counts, charging misapplication of funds.

Going to buy a New Car this Spring?

~ then consider these things:

- 1 Every week, more and more buyers are choosing Oaklands. In little more than a year, the demand for the Six-44 has taxed the production facilities of the Oakland factories.
- 2 Oakland is so confident of the superior merit of its engine that it places upon every engine a written 15,000 mile guarantee against excess oil in the combustion chamber. Oakland is the only company to offer such an unusual guarantee!
- 3 Oakland is the only company that gives you a definite gauge with which to judge, in advance, the actual mileage the essential parts of the Oakland Six will deliver—free from trouble or expense.
- 4 Oakland service stations are keeping accurate records of upkeep expenses on Six-44's. In Cleveland, for instance, the average upkeep last year was only $8.06 per car. Other cities report similarly low averages.

When You Buy An Oakland—You Buy Known Mileage

You see new Oaklands everywhere! Every week, you meet them on the streets in increasing numbers! Have you considered the reasons for Oakland's phenomenal success?

It is simply the result of Oakland's purpose to build the finest light-six in the world—a purpose realized some eighteen months ago in the Six-44.

Oakland's success has been justly merited—merited by definite superiorities that will become more and more evident to you the more closely you inspect the car.

It is these definite superiorities—that enable Oakland to offer buyers a definite gauge by which they can estimate the minimum number of miles their Oaklands will deliver. It is these same superiorities that enable Oakland to give a special 15,000 mile engine performance guarantee.

And it is this same superior quality that alone is responsible for the unusual records—in open competition and in private service—that have been established by Oaklands during the past year.

Twice, you will remember, Oakland won important national economy and endurance contests. In Cleveland, actual records show an average annual upkeep cost of only $8.06.

If you are considering the purchase of a new car this spring—you simply cannot afford to overlook the Oakland.

It is a beautiful car—and an extremely comfortable one. It has ample power for any emergency; its six cylinders insure a remarkable smoothness of operation at all speeds. Its economy has become the subject of universal comment. The table of mileages shown below estimates, with remarkable accuracy, the minimum number of miles you can expect from your Oakland.

Compare these facts with your own personal experiences with any cars of similar price. Analyze the Oakland. Then remember that Oakland—a division of General Motors Corporation—offers this splendid car upon a basis of definite and actual mileage.

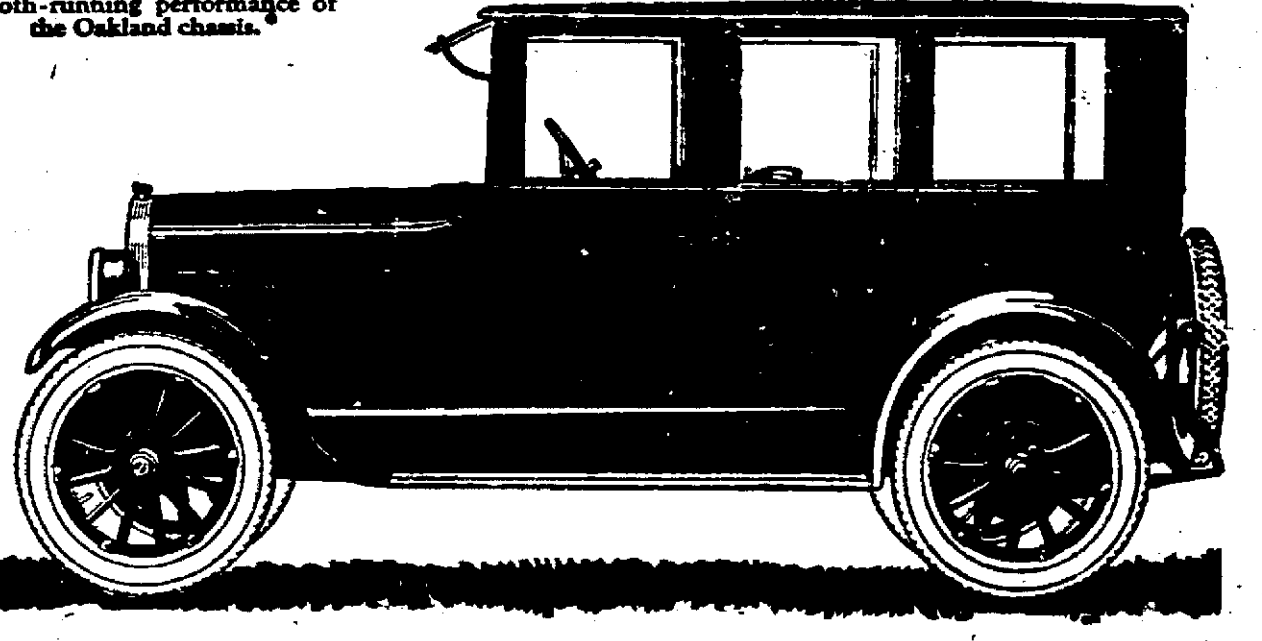

You will then readily understand why more and more discriminating buyers are daily convincing themselves that no other light-six offers the dollar-for-dollar value so evident throughout the Oakland line.

WARRANTS NOT NECESSARY FOR SEARCH OF STILL

RICHMOND, Va., April 6.—Under a decision of the supreme court of appeals officers are not required to obtain search warrants when they suspect that stills or liquors are on the lands of occupants. The case came up when the owners of land sued officers for entering lands, the supreme court saying that the officers had a right to make such search without a warrant. The court has rendered a large number of decisions in liquor cases this term, and they were practically all against the persons convicted in the lower courts.

TAMPA, Fla., April 6.—The first tough break that Manager Donie Bush received in his debut as leader of the Nationals, centred around his star, Walter Johnson.

"Walter will be in shape when the season starts," remarked Bush. "I am not worrying on that score. My only worry is over the youngster."

BRANCH STATIONS WILL PROBABLY BE LOCATED

(By The Associated Press)
ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 6.—Branch stations of the Appalachian Experiment Station, which has headquarters in Asheville, will probably be located in central Kentucky, eastern Tennessee, and the National Forests of Virginia and in the coastal plains, with forestry experts on duty as the work requires their attention, it was stated at the investigative conference of forest experts today.

Reports of the southern experiment station, which has offices in New Orleans were under discussion today, E. H. Hays of Washington, D. C., presiding.

CLICK! CLACK!

Young women who type for a living will be interested to learn that the typewriter was invented 50 years ago this month. The inventor was Christopher Latham Sholes, and he perfected his device in Ilion, N. Y.

Like all other important inventions, the idea of a typewriting machine had been buzzing in inventors' heads for untold generations. Probably even centuries. For laziness is back of most inventions, and the idea of a typewriter must have occurred thousands of years ago when the making of records was a slow and laborious task.

As far back as 1714, Henry Miller patented a crude "pewter" in England. He gave this description of it:
"A machine for impressing letters singly and progressively, as in writing, whereby all writings may be engrossed on paper so exact as not to be distinguished from print."

But to Christopher Latham Sholes, apparently, goes the honor of perfecting the first typewriter "that really worked." That is to say, a practical device.

It's queer how, when humanity tries to do something in a new way, it cannot get the old methods out of its heads.

For instance, the first railroad passenger cars looked like stagecoaches.
And the first autos looked like buggies.

So with the typewriter. In most of the earlier typewriting machines, models of which are preserved in the patent office, the keys were laid out in a row like the keys of a piano. It's difficult to thrust precedent aside.
Finally the matter of convenience (laziness again) led to a re-arrangement of typewriter keys in several rows. Then the letters instead of running in alphabetical order (a, b, c, d, etc.) were shifted so that the key to be struck next was as close as possible to the one just tapped.

Penmanship was an accomplishment and a matter of pride in the old days, so many of the early typewriters printed an imitation of handwriting instead of type.

The typewriter has brought many advantages, but with it have come disadvantages worth thinking about.
The typewriter has certainly aided in the facility of expression and communication (and speed), but it has also contributed to the multiplication of unnecessary work by making expression and communication too easy.

It has been a boon to the eyesight of those who otherwise would have had to strain pained letters. But it has destroyed the human and admirable art of letter writing, and frayed
the nerves of multitudes.

It helps promote business through direct advertising, but at the same time it adds the flow of worthless literature without end. All around, the typewriter forced one more link in the great chain of mechanical devices that enslave us. However, you can have the pen and ink, we'll take the typewriter.

ARGUMENTS IN LEGAL BATTLE
OF KLAN CLOSED

(By The Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Ga., April 6.—Arguments in the legal battle between Emperor William H. W. Evans, for control of the Ku Klux Klan were concluded late today before Judge
E. D. Thomas, who took the case under advisement and announced that he would render a decision tomorrow. Pending that, the court retained custody of the Imperial Palace, the general headquarters of the order.

Another development of the day came with W. H. Farrell, representing the Imperial Wizard, and other leaders of the so-called "Imperial Council," the petition signed by
T. R. R. Upchurch, Arthur H.
Wooden and others, asked that a receiver be appointed on the ground that the Klan now is without a duly elected head.

The application further set forth newspaper reports of alleged waste of Klan funds by officials of the organization. The defendants named were H. W. Evans, F. L. Sarver,
H. H. Woodward, Rev. C. A. A.
Bishop, Nathan Bedford Foret, Tom
Akers, Fred B. Johnson, Paul P.
Whitaker, T. J. McKinnon, N. N.

Scoop's Column

DRAKES BRANCH, April 7.—
(Grapevine Wireles.)—Once more we arrive at the last day of the last half of the week. As "Scoop" says, "Don't step on the soap," when you take the Saturday night plunge. We have skipped through a busy week. Besides the usual
board meetings and picture shows there have been various and sundry entertainments, including
"netting parties" on the Yanceyville Road and fudge parties in back parlors, and visiting at Hylton Hall. No doubt "a good time was had by all," as they say at Stokes-land.

The program for the week will be wound up with choir practice at several of the city churches—and the young ladies of Averett College will hold debate tonight. They are going to discuss the interesting subject,
"Resolved, That The Ku Klux Klan is a National Menace." We expect to listen in on the argument for we have long wanted to find out all about this mysterious fraternity. The Klan is a very interesting and we respectfully suggest that the college debating societies warm up their best speakers
and give us a treat after the smoke
of tonight's oratorical battle rolls
away.

We would also like to hear a discussion upon the merits of Einstein's theory of relativity and Darwin's notion of evolution. These subjects are very interesting and we respectfully
suggest that the college debating societies warm up their best speakers
and give us a treat after the smoke
of tonight's oratorical battle rolls
away.

DANVILLE GIVEN LOTS OF PRAISE BY SEARCHLIGHT

Danville is the recipient of considerable encomium in an editorial published in the last issue of the "Searchlight," the official organ of the Appalachian Power Company, published at Bluefield, W. Va. The article starts off by quoting the city's slogan, "Danville Does Things," which opens the way for saying a number of complimentary things.

"Danville Does Things," is the slogan of Danville, Virginia, Chamber of Commerce, and judging from the activities going on in this city it is a remarkably suitable slogan. Danville has the distinction of being the home of the largest cotton mills in the South, a not in the entire United States. It is one of the largest bright loose leaf tobacco markets in the country and is active in the manufacture of such products as flour, furniture, elevators, vehicles, ice, cans, and soft drinks.

This city of Piedmont Virginia, with a population of 30,000 inhabitants, is located in Pittsylvania county, on the main line of the Southern Railway. It is the eastern terminus of the Danville and Western Railway, and the western terminal of the Norfolk division of the Southern Railway. Thus enjoying extraordinary railway service, and rendered accessible to the surrounding country by improved roads, it is ideally located as a manufacturing center and as a market for the farm products.

LETTER FROM BEATRICE GRIMSHAW TO MARY ALDEN, FRIEND OF THE NEWLY-WED JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

SALLIE DEAR:
Enclosed you will find newspaper accounts of the most brilliant wedding I ever attended.

Leslie Hamilton is now Leslie Prescott—in full, Mrs. John Alden Prescott.

They have left Sallie on a wedding trip to some unknown "place" and we will not know exactly where they are until we receive their first letter.

The wedding was simply gorgeous, as you will see from the description, but all the while I had a faint foreboding. John and Leslie do not know each other. Sallie. That is what worries me, I guess.

Of course never having been married, or even in love, I am not supposed to know anything about it, but being on the outside of it all, I am sure that I can give a more unbiased opinion than those who have been through the experience.

Sallie, she does seem to me that anyone with any sense at all should know that two people who enter into the intimate contract of marriage, expecting to be happy, should know each other thoroughly before they make the public declarations and vows of love.

I said as much the other evening when a few of us had settled herself about the big fireplace in the Hamilton billiard room and Sydney Carlton announced, amid laughter, "I am afraid that under those circumstances we would have heaven upon earth for there would be no marriages or giving in marriage."

Cannot understand how such a girl as Leslie could possibly think there is some alchemy in the marriage service that will take two alien natures—and John and Leslie are as unlike as the poles—and fuse them into one splendid whole, alike in taste, in principles, in aims and ideals.

Perhaps the American idea of marriage is the best of any of which we know. It would be, if love were only all. It really seems to me, however, that the first step of love is to love the particular thing which is the least necessary to happiness.

With the same interest, the same tastes, the same ambitions and enthusiasms, the same tolerance and understanding, as in me that a continued companionship would come easy.

CLIPPING FROM THE SHARON DISPATCH

DANVILLE GIVEN LOTS OF PRAISE BY SEARCHLIGHT

Danville, situated 600 feet above sea level, at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains, enjoys a mild climate the year round. Its water supply is ample for a city of 75,000 people and is excellent in lightness and purity. With its model up-to-date sewerage system of twenty-eight miles, underlying the whole city, together with its natural drainage, Danville is a most healthful city.

Danville is one of the largest bright loose leaf tobacco markets in the country, with excellently equipped establishments for the sale and handling of bright types of tobacco. Twelve immense loose leaf warehouses are available for the sale of leaf tobacco at auction. The yearly sales of tobacco actually sold, on the tobacco warehouse floors, average approximately 40,000,000 pounds a year. In addition to these sales, 35,000,000 pounds are consigned yearly to private parties. These figures tell the story of Danville's greatness as a bright loose leaf tobacco market.

Located in Danville is the well known firm of the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills, the value of whose plant is about $3,000,000. The yearly output of these mills is approximately 164,000,000 yards of cloth, or 87,000 miles. Think of it! The celebrated brands from these mills are standards of excellence and are favorably known throughout the country.

The worm has to turn to make ends meet.

THE GREAT ELUSION

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Arrgt. MHA Service, Inc.

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Greyes falls in love with Janet and proposes marriage. Michael disguises himself and attends the wedding reception. Having stolen a pearl necklace, the gift of Sir Norman to his bride, Sayers returns them indirectly to Janet.

Michael bugs from the divorced wife of a politician a bundle of manuscript, evidence against the lady's former husband and his confederate, the well-known Lord Kindersey. Sayers refuses ten thousand pounds from the newspapers for the evidence for publication because he is in love with Beatrice Kindersey.

It was toward the close of a dinner party at Kindersey Court, in Devonshire, where Janet and I were spending a fortnight, that our host suddenly directed the conversation to me.

"One has heard a great deal of your successes, Greyes, especially during your last few years at Scotland Yard. What do you count your greatest failure?"

"My inability to bring to justice the greatest criminal in Europe," I replied after moment's hesitation.

"I had him on my book for three years, but when I retired, he was still very much at large."

"What is his name?" Lord Kindersey asked with some interest.

"A name, with him, I suspect, is an affair of the moment. I have known him under a dozen different pseudonyms; but his real name is, believe me, Michael. He did me the honor to attend my wedding reception as Colonel Escombe."

I happened to meet the glance of Beatrice Kindersey as I looked across the table.

"But tell us about this man Michael!" Lord Kindersey intervened. "I remember, seven or eight years ago, hearing something about the duel between your fellows at Scotland Yard and a wonderfully led criminal gang. Where is the fellow now?"

I shook my head.

"I shouldn't have the faintest idea where to look for him. If he comes into the limelight again, my friend Rimmington at Scotland Yard will certainly send for me."

"And you would join in the hunt?" our host persisted.

"You would do nothing of the sort," Janet intervened, looking across at me. "That is a promise."

I smiled back at her reassuringly. Prosperity and peace of mind had agreed with Janet. The dignity of wifehood sat well upon her. Her complexion seemed to have grown more creamy, her beautiful eyes softer, her carriage always graceful, more assured. There was no woman in the county more admired than she—certainly no one so well served as she. I sometimes think that if she had had her way, she would never have wandered at all outside our little domain.

"There is just the one possibility," I remarked, "that I might not be able to evade the challenge. If I do not go after Michael, he may come after me."

It was precisely at this moment that the amazing event happened. We were a party of twelve at dinner, seated at a round table in the center of the large banqueting hall of Kindersey Court. The room was rather dimly lighted, except for the heavily shaded table lamps. The two footmen had left the room, presumably to fetch the coffee, and the butler standing behind Lord Kindersey's chair was the only servant in attendance.

The place went out, and we were plunged into the most complete darkness.

"Never knew such a thing to happen before," our host declared in an annoyed tone. "Somebody must have been tinkering with the power-house. Fetch some candles, Searle."

The butler turned to grope his way toward the door, but he was not allowed to reach it. From various parts of the shadowy space on every side of us, little pin-points of fire blazed up, and steadily approached, without sound or movement. One of them came to a standstill immediately behind Lord Kindersey's chair. Wielded by some unseen hand, the dazzling brilliancy of a high-powered scientific torch was flashed round upon twelve amazed faces. Then a strong voice broke the spellbound silence, a voice still and cold and perfectly modulated.

"Ladies and gentlemen," the intruder said, "there is no need for any particular alarm. This is to use a slang phrase, a 'holdup.' We have automatic pistols, and I trust that you will realize the absurdity of resistance."

"God bless my soul!" Lord Kindersey exclaimed. "Where are all my servants? How the devil did you get in?"

"It is scarcely policy to let you into the secret of our methods," the same cold voice continued; "but I have no objection to telling you that we came in through the front door, that your servants are locked up and guarded in the servants' hall very much as you are, that your electric phone wires are cut, your electric light supply is in our hands, and the lodge-gates guarded. You ladies will kindly place all the jewelry you are wearing, upon the table in front of you. There must be no delay, please, or any attempt at concealment."

"What shall I do?" the woman next to me whispered hoarsely. "I am wearing my emeralds—Jack Implicit me not to—they are worth 2,000 pounds."

"You will have to do as the others are doing," I told her. "The first act of this little drama must be played out according to orders."

She unclasped the necklace with trembling fingers, and the unseen

Small Hats and Veils to Knees!

SMALL HATS, ALL OF THEM, ARE WHAT THE DEBUTANTES WORE IN THE EASTER PARADE THIS YEAR.

BY MARIAN HALE
(Special to The Bee.)

NEW YORK, April 7.—The outstanding feature of the fashionable Fifth-Avenue parade this season was the supremacy of the small, cloche hat.

Of that one-time favorite, the picture hat, there was scarcely a trace. And the medium-sized hat must have taken to cover for it was not even in the running.

All the smart, little debutantes who can be counted on to exploit the latest styles were out with their tiny hats of felt, fabric or straw—each one following the same general idea, but following it in its own way so each one was different.

All-Year Hat.
The felt hat which formerly disappeared with the winter and returned in the late summer, has achieved a year-round popularity.

It is seen trimmed with flowers and fruit, draped with colorful scarves or lace or chiffon veils, peppered up with ribbon bows or quiet sticks, or entirely devoid of trimming.

One smart New York hat shop has scarcely featured any but felts and fabric turbans.

Another noticeable feature was the use of veils. There are two popular types, the short one of lace which just veils the eyes and leaves the nose and mouth exposed to the elements, and the long scarf of crepe pulled tightly about the crown and falling off one side in a full scarf, sometimes reaching to the knees.

How to Wear 'Em.
Most of the trimming seems to be placed either on the right side, or on both, and this season's hat is worn quite squarely over the brow instead of being tilted to right or left.

Fewer feathers and more flowers are used than formerly.

Although there were some very snappy little black hats, the majority were colored—tan and beige being particularly in evidence.

VENERABLE LADY DIES IN CASWELL CO.

Mrs. Bettie Fuller Barnwell, daughter of William Fuller and widow of Samuel Barnwell, died suddenly at her residence, the old Fuller home, near Hightowers, Caswell county, N. C., on Thursday afternoon. She was in the 83rd year of her age, and had spent almost her entire life in the old paternal home. She had been ailing for several days, her condition had not been regarded as immediately dangerous or even serious, despite her age. She had just partaken of a meal especially prepared for her, but soon afterward she developed a sudden crisis and died in a few minutes before medical aid could reach her. Mrs. Barnwell had been widowed for many years.

The death of this venerable and estimable woman followed scarcely six months after the death of her sister, Mrs. Frances Fuller Thomas, beside whom she was buried in the old Cooper cemetery at Prospect Hill yesterday afternoon. The only surviving member of this old and prominent family for more than a century.

President of southern Caswell is Mrs. Sarah Burton, an invalid, and who is now past four-score years. Mrs. Barnwell was a kind and generous neighbor, a loyal friend and a woman of unusual mentality and was widely known in the community. She had been widowed for many years.

The funeral services of Mrs. Barnwell took place yesterday afternoon in the Cooper cemetery and were unusually well attended, despite the fact that there were few facilities for the burial of her death to be disseminated.

Elder McKinney, of the Primitive Baptist church, came over from the Roxboro vicinity to conduct the services. The services were simple and brief, as she would have had them.

Among those from this city who attended the services were Mrs. Arthur H. Taylor, a niece of the deceased, and Thomas Thayer, her grand-nephew, and Mrs. John Riggs, formerly of this city.

THIN ON WIFE'S FOOD UNIQUE DIVORCE PLEA

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 6.—Robert K. Winslow declared that when he separated from his wife he weighed 160 pounds, but since eating food prepared by his mother he gained 25 pounds. This evidence was given by Winslow in contesting his wife's suit for divorce.

Mrs. Winslow countered by exhibiting a photograph of her husband showing that he was in good condition while living with her. The case was taken under advisement.

OIL LEASES BOUGHT
(By The Associated Press)

PAWUSKA, Dak., April 6.—Leases on 45 tracts of Osage Indian lands were bought in by oil men at the 21st Osage lease sale here today for a total of $5,290,100.

Ten 160-acre tracts located in the Burbank field sold for a total of $7,177,000.

Four sales netted more than a million dollars each, the highest price being paid by Waite Phillips who bid $1,325,000 for a lease on 160 acres.

Mrs. Florence W. Powell and little daughter, Mary Elizabeth, are visiting in Sanford and Stedman, N. C.

Doing Away With Self-Ignition

SINCE THE "KEROSENE FUEL" now in use has a lower point of ignition than the straight gasoline formerly available, self ignition has of late proved a more serious evil than ever before, and will probably become even more so. Some of the measures for its prevention are the following: The use of compression pressures somewhat lower than were safe practice when high test gasoline was used. The avoidance of carbon deposits, the effect of which is to reduce, by their low heat conductivity, the escape of heat to the cooling water, and thus to permit the abnormal rise in temperature of the combustion space surfaces, which are in contact with the charges. Such deposits, if thick enough, even cause an increase in the compression pressure by occupying space which should be taken by the charge. The uniform and adequate cooling of all parts of the combustion space by complete jacketing with water that is kept in circulation, so that steam (a poor heat conductor) may not form and remain in contact with them. This includes the valve chambers and their valves, spark-plug losses and all parts exposed to the heat of explosion. The avoidance of joints between parts which are intended to be cool and the jacket wall spaces. The use of pistons having heads of sufficient heat conducting capacity to prevent their reaching excessively high temperatures; and the avoidance of cylinder bores so large as to render, practically impossible the cooling of the piston by conduction to the cylinder walls.

CLEANING OUT RADIATOR

A. S. M. writes: When my radiator is drained through the plug at the bottom the water is very dirty. Should the radiator be cleaned and if so, what is the best way to do this?

Answer: The radiator should be cleaned occasionally. A good way to do this is to run water, at hydrant pressure, through the whole cooling system. Take off one of the rubber connections and apply a garden hose to one of the connections thus exposed, allowing the water to escape through a short piece of hose attached to the other connection. This will get rid of all loose sediment. Another way is to open the radiator at the top and force water from a hose into the filler opening while the engine is running. If the radiator is clogged with incrustations which a water current will not loosen, chemical methods will have to be resorted to.

JUDGING CONDITION OF USED TIRES AND BATTERY

T. S. asks: How can I determine the condition of the tires and battery on a used car, which I am thinking of buying?

Answer: You can examine the tires as to the following points, but even then, predictions as to the service they will give will be found quite uncertain. See that the makers' brand and the serial number are on each tire, for their absence indicates that the tires are "seconds." Examine the treads as to the extent to which they are worn, loosened or cut and as to whether the rubber is fresh and lively or hard and full of cracks. Inspect the tires themselves for evidence of repairs. Serial numbers usually convey something as to the age of tires as to the who is in the business. You can tell practically nothing about the condition of the battery by inspecting it and you will have to depend upon the integrity of the seller of the car for such matters as this. The looks of the battery may give you some indication of its age, but appearances are deceptive. Of course you will see that it operates the starter energetically and brings your lamps to full brightness before you accept it. The records of the local battery station of the ones who registered the battery might be of some service in determining the date of delivery.

The Role the Face Plays

"The eyes must be the width of an eye apart," says Mr. Ziegfeld, and offers Frances Revaux as a perfect sample.

WHAT MAKES A BEAUTIFUL GIRL? HERE ARE MEASUREMENTS APPROVED BY ONE OF AMERICA'S LEADING AUTHORITIES ON FEMININE BEAUTY; THE "ZIEGFELD FOLLIES" TRADEMARK ON BEAUTY IS LIKE "STERLING" MARK ON SILVER.

By FLORENZ ZIEGFELD, JR.

BEAUTY'S YARDSTICK

The eyes should be the length of one eye apart.

The nose should divide the face into two equal parts.

A line drawn through the middle of the eyes and one drawn through the bottom of the nose should divide the face into thirds.

The mouth should be one and one-half times as long as the eye.

The face should be four times as wide as the eye is long.

A GIRL comes to see me. She is pretty—at first glance she seems beautiful. I am inclined to classify her thus in my mind.

I ask her to sit down and talk with me. As soon as I can, I switch the talk from the girl and what she wants to other things—books, music, the current plays. She is off her guard, then, to some extent, and I can see what she really looks like. Perhaps at the end of three minutes I know that she is not really beautiful, but merely pretty.

That is because she lacks intelligence.

ALWAYS THE SAME

Every time she looks up her face is the same. After the first glance you have seen all there is. She may have regular features, a charming smile, a beautiful complexion. But her face makes just one picture, the one you see when you first look at her.

If a girl's face is not intelligent, it is not beautiful. It is only a pretty mask. There may have been a day when the sweet little thing who had no brains had her place on the stage; I never selected girls of this type for one of my productions, and I never shall. To me they are not beautiful. They have no personality, and no girls is beautiful is she lacks that.

Not only is an unintelligent girl not beautiful; she is not adaptable. She cannot think on the stage. She may learn a certain routine, but she cannot throw herself into the spirit of it. More than once I have refused to engage a girl who seemed to be beautiful according to the opinions of many, but who was rather stupid.

Famous beauties have been famous for their charm and intelligence as well as for their looks. Everyone who knew Lillian Russell appreciated her intellect. Her intelligence was one of the things that made her beauty last. The girl who is really intelligent has a buoyancy that makes her beauty alive. She seems to fit into any number which I may plan, just as she would fit into any situation off stage, because her imagination is keen enough to put her into the scene and make her adapt herself to it, and to the costume which she wears for it.

Unless a girl possesses this power of adaptation she will never make a Follies girl. Each year there are special numbers in which unusual costumes and lighting and color effects are used. Now, a pretty girl may look well in one kind of clothes and be quite unable to wear any other kind. She is not a real beauty, but is only pretty. Real beauty can dominate any costume and adapt itself to it.

The girl who is not intelligent is likely to be conscious of her looks. She has them in the back of her mind all the time. That detracts from her charm, of course, and also from her looks. Beauty must be natural, not stilted and aware of itself. When a girl looks out at the audience she must not be thinking of herself and of how she looks, but of the thing which she is doing at the moment. She must be doing that thing because she wants to, and enjoys doing it, just as a child enjoys playing. If she is engaged in thinking about her appearance, she loses the spirit of play.

I have seen beautiful girls whose looks did not conform to any of my rules except this one, that intelligence and personality are absolutely necessary. They had the appearance of beauty, and gave to those who saw them the impression that they were beautiful. And so I would advise the girl who is eager to be as good-looking as possible to seek perfect health, and to develop her mind by reading and observation. A girl who has to get to school would like it if she felt that study was aiding her in her search for beauty.

Of course intelligence and personality cannot make a beautiful girl by themselves. There are certain requirements which a girl's face must meet if she is to be termed beautiful.

Some Rules For Beauty.

1—The eyes. They must be large, expressive and well set. Color does not matter if it is deep and clear. Blue, gray or black eyes may be equally beautiful, if they have depth and feeling. Expressive eyes are never lovely. The brows should conform to the general shape of the face; for instance, arched brows are beautiful on some faces and straight ones on others. Plucked brows are hideous.

The eyes should be the length of one eye apart.

2—The nose. It should be straight and well shaped, and slightly indented where it meets the forehead. Its proportions should be right for the rest of the face—that is, one-third the length of the face.

3—The mouth. It must be beautiful both in repose and when smiling or laughing. The lips should be clear cut, and neither too thick nor too thin. They should be healthy in color. The mouth should be as wide as the eye, and one and one-half times as long. A short upper lip is sometimes considered a mark of beauty, but is not beautiful unless it seems to fit in with the rest of the features. The teeth must be white and even.

4—The complexion. It must be clear, of course. The day when make-up covered a bad skin has gone with the vanishing of excessive use of grease paint and powder on the stage. I venture to state that the Follies girls could go out on the street and not look any more made up than many of the girls whom they passed. I do not believe in the use of a great deal of make-up. It is likely to make a face expressionless. A certain amount is necessary on the stage, when strong lights are used, but it is always advisable to use a little less than seems necessary, rather than a little more.

It is difficult to give measurements, of course, but generally speaking these are good ones for determining the beauty of the features.

The head should be from eight and two-thirds to nine inches long; this is the average length. Variations are not great, and few heads are less than eight and one-fourth or more than nine inches long.

The nose should divide the face into two equal parts.

A line drawn through the middle of the eyes and one drawn through the bottom of the nose should divide the face into thirds.

The mouth should be one and one-half times as long as the eye, and the eyes should be the length of one eye apart.

The face should be four times as wide as the eye is long.

Spare the Make-up!
Of course in selecting girls for my productions I prefer that applicants appear without make-up. If they come to me rouged and much powdered, I simply have to discount the effect they gain in this way. Unless a girl is pretty enough to appear without any make-up on at all, she is not likely to be accepted.

Naturally, I cannot indulge my personal preferences in this matter of selecting beautiful girls. It does not matter whether I prefer the classic type or not. I may think that a short upper lip is far more beautiful than a longer one, but—very people do not think so. So far as it is possible, I must try to represent all types of beauty in "The Follies."

Therefore the beauty of the girls whom I select is strongly contrasted. They come from all over the country, and they are representative of all types of beauty.

Want to see a nose, mouth and chin that come up to the specifications printed below?
Gaze on Allyn King's

Measure beauty by statistics if you want to—but who wants to when they can look at Alice Weaver of the Greenwich Village Follies?

It's Hard Work to Be a Beauty!
The girl whose beauty and talent make a place for her in one of my productions cannot rest on her laurels once she is in. I believe that we would see about us every day even more beautiful women than we do—and the number is constantly increasing—if women who are not in the public eye paid as much attention to caring for their looks as the girls of the stage are forced to pay.

The girl who earns her living on the stage cannot afford to be tired. Fatigue shows in her eyes, making them lose their clearness and creating shadows about them. Her complexion shows the result of too little rest, and loses its freshness. Her whole face is likely to look worn and tired.

Therefore she must get enough rest—which in most cases means that she must have nine hours' sleep every day. And it must be real sleep, based on perfect relaxation. The girl who takes her troubles into her dreams is not going to get the rest she needs.

Exercise is another necessity. That may seem odd, when the amount of dancing that a Follies girl does is considered. But even enjoyable exercise that comes under the head of work does not fill the bill. Long walks, horseback rides, drives through the park, skating, swimming—they all produce mental relaxation, which brings rich dividends in beauty.

The girl who does not get the right food lets her beauty suffer. The right nourishment is absolutely essential. The girl who eats the wrong food, eats hurriedly, or snatches breakfast or luncheon or dinner at just any odd moment, is not going to have the mental peace which produces beauty. She may think she is only nervous—but that's not the case. Years of theatrical experience have taught me that it's the girls who take trouble to live in the right way who are the most beautiful at the end of the season as well as at the beginning.

And of course that is a thing that I have to consider. I am always on the watch for beauty, but especially so I look for it when I am preparing for a new production and interviewing girls who want a place in it. Naturally, those girls have prepared for the interview. They have rested, dressed to show off their beauty, done everything they could think of to make their look their best. But I must be a good enough judge of character to know which girls are going to keep their beauty right through the year, and not look haggard within a few months.

Girls who have had stage experience realize the necessity of taking care of their looks. They will spend money on treatments and beauty preparations when they really want it for new clothes.

A Universal Standard.

Of course my knowledge of beauty has been built up through years of selecting girls who will look beautiful to everybody. I've acquired a universal standard, as you might say. The Follies travel across the country, and people of all kinds, in all places of importance, see the show. Twenty-five years of picking girls have taught me what beauty gets across the footlights and appeals to audiences and what doesn't.

And if you take features that meet the requirements I've given here, backed by personality and intelligence—you have a recipe for beauty that's going to get by everywhere, with everybody.

Figures don't lie; the Greenwich Village Follies has proof of that in Linn Van Voorhees, in whose case the right measurements certainly produce a result that's good to look upon.

THIS IS THE SECOND ARTICLE OF A SERIES OF FIVE BY MR. ZIEGFELD, WHICH APPEAR EVERY SATURDAY IN THIS PAPER.

Second Game With Portsmouth Scheduled For Today

Hitting Won the Game Yesterday From Portsmouth

Hitting most opportunely the offerings of Proctor, an ex-Piedmont-Leaguer hurling for Portsmouth yesterday, Danville took the first game of the series of two by a score of six to nothing. The visitors had only one chance to score. The opportunity came in the sixth inning. With two men down Yotter doubled sharply to left, Thomas walked and Wilson hit down the left foul line. Yotter ambled home from second, taking in time while Thomas attempted to make third. Trexler caught him off six feet and the side was retired before Yotter crossed home plate.

Trexler was back in the game for the first time yesterday, and to celebrate his return, knocked one into the schoolhouse cellar for a homer the first time he came to the bat. That exhausted his hitting for the afternoon, but he showed that he had not lost his cunning in the field. "Cudge" Harris started the game for the Tobaccoists and appeared to be in mid-season form. While he was on the mound the visitors did not get a single hit, in fact, only one man got on, a walk.

Every time Mallan plays he endears himself more and more to the local fans. Yesterday he secured two home runs, both of them vicious slashes. The first homer brought in two runs additional Trexler's homer also brought in a runner besides the batter.

Five of Danville's runs were made in the first inning. Allison was out at first. McEnroe was safe on an error of the catcher and then Trexler came to the bat and lost the ball, too.

Korlin drove through the pitcher's box. Regan walked and Mallan walked to the plate, set himself and lifted the ball high over the scoreboard, where there is a double fence, three runs coming.

Danville's last run came in the third, when Mallan knocked another homer.

The game yesterday was well played, the local team showing more team-work and more consistent hitting.

Today being Saturday it is expected that the crowd will be large. Totes will probably start. Soo will probably pitch for Portsmouth.

AMOR MINES LACK CAPITAL

VLADIVOSTOK, April 6.—The government still is in search of foreign capital to work the natural riches of the Primorje region, and foreigners may take up concessions on advantageous terms.

A significant fact is that there are more Japanese coming into this port than are leaving. Some American miners from Alaska also have come to Vladivostok with money, and intend to take up gold mining in the Okhotsk and other districts where gold is known to exist.

REFEREE CALLS BOUT BECAUSE OF ROUGH STUFF

When John Kilonis and Joe Shimkus met here last night on the mat at the Municipal Hall the fans expected a good wrestling match, not a boxing event; they got a little of both, and after each man had secured a fall, Umpire Harry Stevens called the bout on account of the rough tactics of both men. Shimkus was rough; Kilonis was rough. Both were equally to blame for spoiling an otherwise splendid match.

The first fall went to the Greek in one hour and ten minutes on a flying mare and headlock. Both men during the first fall fought hard; everything in the game of wrestling was brought into play and when these tactics did not seem to work the men resorted to all manner of off-color work. They were called down time and again by the referee, but the warnings only served to stay the rough stuff for a while. Soon both were back at it. There was kicking, gouging, slapping, foul holds and other means to annoy and wear down.

The second fall was even worse than the first. This went to the Athenian in 41 minutes on a double toe hold. And the third was a case of going from bad to worse and when the two men absolutely refused to heed the warnings of the referee he stopped the match and called it a draw.

On the other hand the preliminary bout between Hunnicutt, of Schoolfield and Hards, of Charlotte, was a clean exhibition between two young wrestlers of promise. Each of these events was training hard for mat matches and both were in the pink of condition for the bout of last night. Their bout ended in a draw.

HEAVYWEIGHT BOUT ON FRIDAY

Next Friday night Danville will see a heavy-weight wrestling bout at the Municipal Hall between Frank McLaughlin, of Savannah, heavy-weight champion of the South and Harry Stevens, secretary of the Greensboro Athletic Club, who some years ago was a prominent figure in the wrestling world. Stevens stated last night that he had decided to get back into the wrestling game and had been working out recently to get into condition and feels like he can take on a bout at this time.

McLaughlin is known all over the South as a wrestler of unusual ability and a splendid match is expected.

Stevens has been refereeing all of the wrestling bouts held in Danville and has been giving universal satisfaction.

Negro Athlete Apt To Imitate Star Brethren

NEW YORK, April 6.—When De Hart Hubbard, Michigan freshman; Ned Gourdlin, former Harvard athlete, and Sol Butler, the spade flush from Dubuque, placed one-two-three in the running broad jump at the national championships, it struck many observers as being more than a psychic oddity or mere coincidence that three negroes should so completely dominate one particular event. It was.

At least so says Dan Ferris, track and field authority. "Colored athletes are imitative," is Dan's explanation. "They are unconscious mimics. When they saw Butler winning broad jumping events a vast percentage of them began to jump. Then came Gourdlin, with a new world's record of 25 feet 3 inches. That settled it. From now on colored jumpers are very apt to be in the limelight."

Worthy Imitated, Too

The worthy Daniel is quite right so far as he goes. He could go further, however. The writer has in mind the occasion, some seventeen years ago, when the late, John B. Taylor first came into prominence as a quarter-mile sprinter at Pennsylvania. Taylor, of the mother negroes in track athletics, created something of a commotion by jumping out of a "pocket" and running around his field to win the title in 48 4-5 seconds at the Intercollegiate.

Taylor was the first real track celebrity of the colored race. He had an unusually lengthy stride—nine feet from toe to toe. Almost overnight Taylor struck, even if they had to dislocate a careless hip.

Taylor's brother-in-law, Madison, by name and imitative by nature, picked up his every mannerism within a comparatively few weeks. But he overlooked the rather vital matter of speed. He couldn't run fast enough to keep warm.

440 Not Popular Now

In fact, the negro at large was not a successful quarter-mile runner, nor has he since been able to travel a distance with the best of the white runners. In consequence, when Taylor lost caste by finishing fourth behind Carpenter and Robins, the Americans and Lieutenant Hays, of England in the famous 400-meter race at the 1908 Olympics, quarter-mile running ceased to be a vogue among the colored athletes.

Shortly thereafter Howard Drew flashed across the public retina as the fastest sprinter in America and immediately every negro was a sprinter. The backwash of that movement is still with us today, the negro being thus inclined as much by choice as by the suggestion of Drew's prominence. Even Butler and Gourdlin themselves started out to be sprinters. They merely drifted into broad jumping as a side issue when they found the going a trifle too fast for the particular kind of brunet heels they possessed.

Mrs. Mallory Has Lost Her Prestige

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times)

NEW YORK, April 7.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, now on her way to this country after a disastrous tennis campaign on the Riviera, is not likely to do a great deal better in the Spring and Summer tournaments in this country.

This is the opinion of American tennis experts who have followed our woman champion's game season after season. Mrs. Mallory, they believe, is through.

Dissenting from this opinion, the woman may take the courts within the next few weeks and after a long course of preparation will give practical evidence that she is the Molla of old.

If, however, she succeeds in doing this she will surprise certain qualified critics. For throughout her career Mrs. Mallory's game has been based upon driving power, of her good right arm. The girl who always played her the closest matches, Mary Browne, of California—who is now making a bid for fame as a golfer on the West Coast—weighed less than a hundred pounds. She shot rings around Molla for a set or so but in the end succumbed to the bigger woman's strength.

It is worth noting that no man had ever hit harder shots at her than had Mrs. Mallory in her prime. A genius of the courts like Miss Browne could stand up against them as long as she stamined, held out and maintained a winning margin over the champion through sheer technique. But in the end technique was invariably found not to avail against superior strength.

In many ways, to call Mrs. Mallory a female "Maurice McLoughlin" would be fair analogy. McLoughlin had practically one winning streak, an overhead. He employed this on his serve, of course, and then through the name on returns. It was when he came under the criticism that he had no strokes and sought to put a varied technical finish to his game and he passed from the championship class.

Mrs. Mallory never made McLoughlin's mistake. She stuck to the touch and driving power. She is Scandinavian born and raised. Her strength and endurance have matched her sturdy physique.

Looking back over our former woman champions we find that all were technically excellent, far more so than Mrs. Mallory. For though of Belgic. Who of the veteran tennis enthusiasts does not recall the splendid technique of Marion Jones, champion in 1899 and 1902, or Bessie Moore, who won the title in 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903, or of May Sutton, title holder in 1904; Helen Homans, the 1906 champion and so on down through Hazel Hotchkiss (Mrs. George W. Wightman) and Mary K. Browne. All were accomplished in all details of the game of lawn tennis. All played with that delicacy of touch, that deft tactical judgment, that mastery of details that mark the craftsman or craftsman.

Of all these things Mrs. Mallory has nothing and never has had. Her independence has been her brawn and brawn has served her well.

But old Father time is inexorable in his demands and the feeling is that he has presented an over due draft to Molla Mallory. If this proves to be true—or rather if this is proving to be true—we shall see that our champions technical equipment will be but an inadequate pro.

Meanwhile Mrs. Mallory has not been recorded by everyone as of the ideal competitive type.

SWEETSER MAY JOIN GOLFERS

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 6.—Jesse W. Sweetser, of Yale, national amateur golf champion, may yet be a member of American team which will go abroad soon for the International Walker cup matches with Great Britain. It was learned today, despite his recent announcement that school duties would prevent him from making the trip.

Officials of the United States Golf Association are understood to have taken up the matter with Yale authorities in an effort to obtain a leave of absence for the national champion. Friends and relatives also have interested themselves in his behalf.

The college, however, was said to feel that granting a leave of absence to Sweetser might set an undesirable precedent for athletic stars. An absence of nearly two months from his studies,

LOWER SCORING SEEN.

(By The Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 6.—The play in the different events of American Bowling Congress championship tournament brought out lower scoring than usual, only a few of the doubles teams going over the 1200 mark. A. Trapp and S. P. Troys, of Chicago, featured the duo event with a total of 1272. Trapp counted 682 pins for his share and his teammate garnered 590.

T. Atkins, of Milwaukee, was the best in the individuals shooting, rolling consistent games of 221, 224 and 211 for a total of 656.

CINCINNATI, April 6.—Lope Rodiguez Indian pitcher of the Cincinnati Nationals was released today to the Morrisville (Tenn.) team. He formerly pitched semi-professional ball in Texas.

STRENGTH AND SAFETY IN THE BODY OF STEEL

If you could see the main body structure of Dodge Brothers Business Coupe before the enamel is baked on, and before the interior is furnished, you would be profoundly impressed by its strength.

You would see that every panel, every pillar, and every rib is steel—that even the door sills and window moldings are steel.

You would see that all of these parts and sections are electrically welded together into one staunch steel body, with no bolts or rivets to work loose, nothing to rattle or squeak or warp.

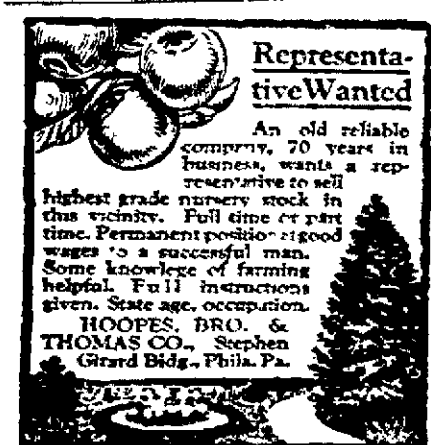

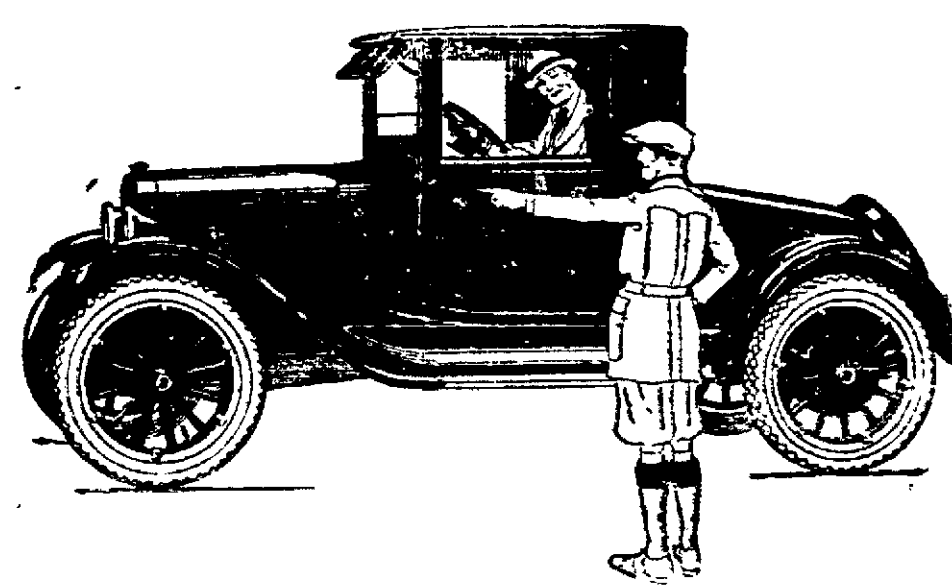

And you would realize that, like the all-steel Pullman coach, this unique construction—originated by Dodge Brothers for this car—represents the last word in protection to passengers—the ultimate achievement in closed car sturdiness.

The Price of the Business Coupe in $1,080.00 Delivered.

MRS HOOVER HEADS MOVEMENT TO MAKE STURDIER WOMEN

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, April 7.—A nation-wide movement to promote the health, fitness and morale of every woman and girl in America will be inaugurated at a conference of hygiene and physical education authorities to be held in Washington April 6 and 7.

The conference is called under the auspices of the National Amateur Athletic Federation. Mrs. Herbert Hoover, the only woman vice president of the federation and national president of the Girl Scouts.

The major aim of the sessions will be to make up for women and girls a comprehensive program of athletics and recreation activities. Such a program for men and boys formulated at a previous conference is now in operation.

The conference will afford an opportunity for the discussion of the three following major topics," says Mrs. Hoover.

"First—Standards and tests and their co-ordination.

"Second—Mass activities and their effect on the individual and the community.

"Third—Competitive athletics. These questions will be discussed at the conference by recognized leaders in the various related fields of hygiene, physical education and physical recreation.

With a comprehensive program of athletics and recreational activities, through which the work of all institutions and organizations dealing with hygiene and physical education will be co-ordinated, it is believed that the entire movement can be placed on a nation wide footing that will enable it to function smoothly and effectively.

Such a result would work definitely to improve the fitness of the individual and the race. Among the benefits which might properly be expected to follow are:

Increased vigor, vitality and endurance.

The improvement of mental and moral qualities, such as courage, presence of mind, sportsmanship, loyalty, team play, co-operation and certain fundamentals of leadership, fellowship and fellowship.

All these will combine to increase the usefulness of American women to the nation.

Controlling any program for women, however, are physiological, anatomical and emotional factors which, obviously, necessitate a different range of activities from those included in the program worked out for men.

Experts as Meeting. Leading national health organizations and social agencies will be represented at the conference and will assist in working out the program.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO GO TO MARTINSVILLE

Some fifty or more members of Dove Commandery, No. 7, Knights Templar, will leave in a procession of motor-cars at 9 o'clock sharp tomorrow (Sunday), morning for Martinsville to unite with other knights of this commandery from Henry, Pittsylvania, Patrick and Halifax counties in attending special religious services at the Episcopal church with sermon by Rev. M. Roach, rector of the church. The suit-cases containing the uniforms and equipment for the preliminary pageant, and the church services will leave the Masonic Temple, Main and Union streets promptly at 8:30 A. M. Eminent Commander E. W. Beach will be in command.

Including the Martinsville, Chatham and other out-of-the-city members of the commandery it is assured that no fewer than 80 members of this uniformed order will participate in the parade and the religious services. After church the whole commandery will lunch together at the Henry Hotel.

All who can go and who have not yet notified Chairman (Dr.) Robert N. Harper, are requested to notify him as early as practicable today by telephone or messenger in order that adequate accommodations may be assured.

On Sunday, April 15 this commandery will make a similar journey to Chatham, where a special sermon will be delivered.

A Puzzle a Day

UP FROM A LAZY DAZE

Take the letters in the above sentence, recast them to form a new sentence, and it will tell you where the letters came from. Look closely, and you can see the answer, without experimenting.

Yesterdays answer: If hexagon B is divided with three straight cuts, as indicated, it will be made into six triangles, each of which, when added to hexagon A, will form a point of the six-pointed star.

Tobacco May Replace Cotton in Union County

MARTINSVILLE, April 6.—Some agitation for tobacco growing as a means of combating the ravages of the boll weevil in Union county is being made. Many farmers and business men believe that tobacco may be profitable grown in the county, realizing a time when it was grown to some extent in Line 8 Creek township.

First Masonic Meeting In New Temple Is Held

Dove Commandery No. 7, Knights Templar, one of the largest and most notable commanderies in this State in point of personnel, Thursday night held its stated convocation in the quarters provided therefor in the Masonic Temple, this being the first Masonic meeting to be held in the splendid room of the temple, and a record attendance of the craftsmen on that occasion is anticipated.

Although small time was available for advertisement of the first Masonic meeting in the temple, the precise time when it would be available being uncertain until a day or two ago the attendance Thursday night was gratifyingly large. Eminent Commander Ben W. Beach, presided last night. Past Commander Henry C. Smith, acting as generalissimo and Captain-General J. Shields Harvey, Jr. occupying that station, while Recorder D. H. Penn and Treasurer E. G. Mosely, Jr. filled the offices of the subordinate officers were present. Past Commander J. T. Posey served as scribe. In all nearly fifty of the knights were present, including many past commanders. These included E. G. Mosely, Jr. T. Posey, P. W. Townes, W. C. Wooding, D. H. Penn, J. M. King, Harry W. Smith and A. H. Taylor, of the commandery, and C. F. White and C. A. Bury, of other commanderies. It was a matter of especial regret that Dove's two past grand commanders, Eminent Sirs L. H. Miller and A. W. Taylor and Grand Priorate J. C. Hall, honor of the craft, were unable to attend.

Eminent Sir Mosely's presence was an occasion of interest and pleasure to his friends, and his address, marked by real enthusiasm and consecration to Christian Masonry and tinged with some interesting reminiscence was closely followed and warmly received by his audience.

W. C. Wooding, another grand officer, was present at the opening but had to excuse himself on account of other engagements. The occasion was marked by a note of joy and felicitation by the knights, suggested by the return home to permanent quarters after twelve years and three months in temporary quarters leased after the fire which destroyed the old temple.

Messrs. W. H. Smith, chairman, E. H. Marshall and H. B. Merritt, composing the commandery committee on the furnishing and equipment of the temple, and the recipients of enthusiastic commendation for the efficiency with which they had discharged their function and the beautiful and artistic design of the handsome and artistically designed furniture of the most approved design and harmonious blending of rich colors in the drapery and elegant hangings and accessories and the beautiful lights with which the room is equipped. A rising vote of thanks was extended them for their arduous and responsible work so handsomely performed.

Many of those present made informal talks and the occasion was in the nature of a revival of Templarism in which many pledged their renewed interest in the temple and its work. As a result of a happy suggestion of Eminent Sir E. G. Mosely, the senior past commander present, all those attending the initial meeting in the new temple were autographed and thus handed down an interesting relic of the initial convocation in permanent quarters.
